

Paul Lundstrom is the chief financial officer at Flex, the manufacturing partner of choice that helps a diverse customer base design and build products to improve the world.

Paul Lundstrom

Chief Financial Officer

Mr. Lundstrom oversees the finance function including corporate accounting, financial planning and analysis, internal audit, investor relations, tax, enterprise risk management, and treasury. He focuses on shareholder value creation and driving the company's long-term financial framework, including consistent revenue growth, earnings expansion, cash generation, and disciplined capital allocation.

In 2022, Mr. Lundstrom led the completed separation between Flex and solar tracker software solutions company Nextracker Inc., resulting in one of the largest U.S. initial public offerings (IPOs) of 2023. The successful spin-off delivered significant shareholder value and created strategic opportunities for both companies.

Prior to joining Flex, he was vice president and chief financial officer at a rocket and missile propulsion manufacturer, Aerojet Rocketdyne Holdings. During his tenure the company benefited from strong shareholder value creation with growth in earnings, margins, and cash flow. Previously, Mr. Lundstrom was with United Technologies Corporation (now Raytheon Technologies Corporation), where he developed a strong track record of driving profitable growth in global markets.

He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in finance from Truman State University and an MBA from Columbia University.